

I find it hard to believe that a scheme such as "BPL", after all the test results say "BPL" will negatively impact communications, that it is still being considered. I used to have a lot of faith in the wisdom of the Federal Communications Commission.

Please do not bend over money!